

Goodbye Lorraine

When you sing that old melody
It fondels my hearing with a sweet memory
About time that's gone by, about what's next to come
About when you told me you had to go on

Well it rained that night over a dark desert country
And no-one could see how light came down slowly

I woke up on a sidewalk and just like you've said
I could not remember where I had to go next
And while I was wondering how to break through my chains
I was longing to hear your sweet voice again.

Because down that road, I've seen a lot of men dying
But I could not see how you came down crying for me

I kneeled by the river where an old man just died
Please send him an angel, let the sun blind his lies
I kept my promise and found my way through,
'cause even on the thin line I always had you

Goodbye Lorraine, you can dream 'bout something better
Goodbye Lorraine, I've been waiting 'till forever
Goodbye Lorraine, you can dream 'bout something better
Goodbye Lorraine, I've been waiting, it's forever goodbye.
